The Fund is not a mutual fund registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended, ("1940 Act") or other applicable law, and unit holders are not entitled to the protections of the 1940 Act. The regulations applicable to a collective investment fund are different from those applicable to a mutual fund. The Fund's units are not securities registered under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended or applicable securities laws of any state or other jurisdiction. In addition, the Fund's units are not publicly traded on any exchange or over-the-counter market and, as a result, the unit values are not available for publication in newspapers.

The unit values of the Fund will fluctuate and the value of the Fund will decrease or increase in accordance with market conditions. There is no guarantee that the Fund will achieve its investment objective. Units in the Fund are not deposits or obligations of, or endorsed or guaranteed by, Alta Trust or its affiliates and the units are not insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation or any other independent organization. The Fund is also subject to investment risks, including possible loss of the principal amount invested.

Who May Want to Invest

About Risk

The Fund invests in U.S. listed securities. The Fund is subject to market risk, meaning that the value of the investments in the Fund may decline over time causing a reduction in the value of the Fund.

Principal Investment Risks: As with all investment strategies, there is the risk that you could lose money through your investment in the Fund. Many factors affect a Fund's net asset value and performance. The following risks may apply to the Fund's investments.

Management Risk: The Investment Manager's dependence on its process and judgments about the attractiveness, value and potential appreciation of particular stocks in which the Fund invests or writes may prove to be incorrect and may not produce the desired results.

Market Risk: Overall securities market risks will affect the value of individual instruments in which the Fund invests. Factors such as economic growth and market conditions, interest rate levels, and political events affect the US securities markets. When the value of a Fund's investments goes down, your investment in the Fund decreases in value and you could lose money. Stock markets tend to move in cycles, with periods of rising stock prices and periods of falling stock prices.

Limited History of Operations: The Morris & Wells Collective Investment Trust and its associated Fund is a new offering and there is limited history of operations for investors to evaluate.

Investment Style Risk: There is the chance that returns from small to large-capitalization stocks will trail returns from the overall stock market.

American Depository Receipts (ADRs) Risk: The Fund may invest in American Depository Receipts (ADRs) which provide foreign investment exposure and are therefore also subject to the risks of investment in foreign markets. Investing in foreign markets can involve a greater level of risk, as there is often a lower degree of market volume and liquidity than in the U.S. markets and this may result in higher price volatility. In addition, currency risk must also be considered. Foreign securities are denominated in foreign currencies which may change in value in relation to the U.S. dollar, possibly for long periods of time. When a foreign currency declines in value in relation to the U.S. dollar, the return on foreign investments may likewise decline. Foreign governments may also intervene in currency markets or impose approval or registration processes which could adversely affect the value of a Fund.

Other Risks: The above list of risk is not comprehensive and the Fund may be subject to other risks not specified in this disclosure.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION

Morris & Wells Equity Collective Fund

Fund Objective

The Fund seeks to grow primarily through long-term capital appreciation and secondarily through dividend income.

Fund Strategy

The Fund utilizes an opportunistic investment approach. It concentrates on selecting 18-22 stocks with an expected return of 50%-100% each, over a three to five year holding period for each stock. The Fund does not have a constraint to either the market capitalization (size) or sector of the economy of a given investment. The Fund's manager performs all investment research internally on behalf of the Fund and the manager remains an independent firm with over 45 years of investing experience.

The Fund searches for investment ideas through both a company specific screening approach and a macro-economic analysis. In other words, the Fund managers invest in singularly focused company specific opportunities as well as opportunities related to broader economic sector views. The investment decisions derive from a combination of objective data and the Fund managers' compilation of subjective data – all of which the Fund managers combine into a mosaic view of which investment prospects provide the greatest return potential.

The Fund judges investment return potential based on the managers' view of the intrinsic value of a given investment option compared to the other options within the Fund's investment universe. Based on this research and analysis, the Fund managers compile a diverse portfolio of investments, which form the Fund.
